Several NGOs in India are working on various problems and also becomes successful in finding the solutions for some of them. Taking inspiration from the hard work of these NGOs only, SOCET & ASOIT has started a Social Service Club named “HAPPY TO HELP”.

We try to encourage the youth that they should understand the importance of giving social service in the society. They must understand that how the Indian Democratic & Government system works. We try to encourage each and every youth of the country to be part of the development of the Country by bringing some change or development or growth in the society by its own efforts.

Introduction

This report presents you that how the volunteers of “Happy to Help” helped the slum dwellers to bring some amount of happiness in their lives during the so important occasion of Diwali.

Through this activity we showed that all have same rights to enjoy their happiness and if someone lacks then it is the duty of ours to make them enjoy each and every moment of their life.

The main aim of this activity is to share their problems and spread some happiness in our surroundings.

About the Activity

India is also a country of various festivals celebrated by millions of peoples belonging to thousands of different religions and creeds. We all enjoy each and every festival with lots of joy. New clothes, sweets and toys are the today's trend of enjoying any festival. We are very thankful to the God who gave us all this.

But, there is a section of our society which cannot enjoy any of the festival in any of the above mentioned ways. The reason for this may be poverty or we can say that unlawful distribution of national resources among them. Whatever the reason may be, but now it is our duty to make them enjoy all the festivals because they are also a part of our society, and also an inseparable part of our society.

They help us in many ways, from digging small holes to construction of big buildings. They make very big things for us but get only a handful of share of it. If they will not be here then we will be on their position and that is on road, footpath and in slums.

Yes, we are talking about those people who build our houses but they do not have their own one to live.

So for spreading happiness among them and for sharing their problems we decided to collect old clothes and toys from the students of the colleges and distribute it to them as a negligible help.

We started working on this activity on 13th October 2014 and by going from class to class we announced or informed each and every students of the college about our idea. We have with us the whole team of 1st semester student volunteers. This is the first program in which they (1st semester student volunteers) made the announcement of this activity without the help of any senior student volunteer as they all are busy with their mid-semester examinations at that time.

We kept the time for collection of old clothes and old toys from 13th October 2014 to 17th October 2014. We distributed our collection on the next day that is on 18th October 2014.

We distributed the collection among the slum dwellers who resides under the Chimanbhai Patel Over Bridge at the side of Torrent Power Electricity Generation Plant. As the collection was remaining, so we decide to distribute it over the slum dwellers residing on the footpath of Gandhinnagar to Kalol highway stretch near Visat Petrol Pump.
